Post Office Anyone? ..

Borders Big Business

If the $125,000 grossed last year is any indication, the new Y Center post office should do some big business in its new location, according to Clarence L. Jensen, Clerk in Charge.

The new post office in the Y Center is more business than any other contract station in the Denver Region. The Denver Region includes stations under contract to local post offices in Wyoming, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico as well as Utah. Many of the contract stations are also located on campuses in these states.

Six employees currently handle the mail at the Y Center's post office and more may be hired to meet increased demands fall quarter, said Mr. Jensen.

Mr. Jensen pointed out that there are distinct advantages in putting mail boxes at the station post office. "Registered letters, P.O.D. or special delivery mail is always returned by the carrier

English Exam Slated Aug. 1

The last Junior English Proficiency Examination of the Summer will be given Saturday, Aug. 1, 8 a.m., in room 167 McKay, according to Charles D. Tate Jr., Chairman of the Junior English Proficiency Committee.

Registration will be held between 7:40 and 8 a.m. outside the doors of 167 McKay. Registration will be by student activity card.

Any student who has completed his freshman English requirement and sixty semester hours of work is eligible to take this examination. Passing this examination is a graduation requirement. Applications for graduation will not be processed until the applicant has completed this requirement.

If a student should fail this examination, he must complete English 15, Remedial English for Juniors before he can be eligible to take the exam again. Dr. Tate explained. This course is designed to help the student remove his deficiencies in English so he might pass the examination the next time he takes it.

Cool Spot ...

BYU to Build Heat Vault

An external heat conversion vault at Brigham Young University's Cluff Plant Science Laboratories is under construction and will be completed in two months, announced Dr. Earl C. Crockett, acting president.

Located on the north side of 800 North Street just below the brow of University Hill, the new vault will house a low pressure, high-temperature steam generator for heating existing buildings, a high-temperature water heater or supplying heat to new greenhouses, apparatus for domestic water for use in laboratories, and a high-temperature steam generator for soil sterilization. The Cluff Plant Science Laboratories are heated from the campus central heating plant. Heat from the central high temperature water system is exchanged to the local system.

The addition of new greenhouses at the laboratories required additional heat conversion equipment to be installed. The existing heating conversion equipment located in the basement of the Cluff Botanical Laboratory Head House was deficient in capacity and there was not adequate room for new facilities.

Students Challenged By Social V.P.'s Editorial

In concluding with our theme, "The Development of the Whole Man," the editorial piece is paramount. What is education? According to the dictionary, it is the act or process of educating the discipline of mind or character through study or instruction.

We as students at Brigham Young University are aware that the Glory of God is intelligence. It now becomes not only an opportunity, but our responsibility to take advantage of the educational program offered here. The old saying, "you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink" is so very true. We are given, opportunity, now is the time for responsibility. We attend classes, we purchase text books, we are given assignments, these are the opportunities. We must now accept the responsibility and be attentive and responsive in class, read and understand our text books and complete and comprehend the assignments.

"Where nothing is given, nothing is received." We must plan our work and then work our plan. We must plan our studies and take full advantage of the assignments and not just chew and digest the material given us.

Along with our studies, we are having many social activities, including the Chicken Fry Friday night and the 3-D Concert Saturday night. If we would attend to our studies as we do the Social events have enjoyable our studies would be. Certainly the rewards from education far overshadow the rewards of the Social activities.

Remember, if you fail to plan, you plan to fail.

Students Take Issue With 'None Dare Call It Treason' Critics

Dear Editor:

It is very revealing to know that there are a few members of the faculty here on campus who consider themselves qualified to become the self-appointed critics and censors of any reading material which may be available to us in this area. This is the procedure, as we all know, in the Catholic Church; so the layman does not have an opportunity to find out the truth for himself.

As Latter-day Saints we are supposed to be seekers and embracers of truth, regardless of where it may be found. We must investigate and find out for ourselves whether a thing contains any degree of truth or worth. The present situation of our country is too important a matter to just sit back and let someone else decide for us, or tell us not to be concerned about some prominent evidence.

To those of you who may have signed your name beside one of your fellow faculty members upon being frightened at the thought of "Communism" actually infiltrating into this country, the U.S.A.—have you really read this book and sought to find out the truth for yourself? The same appears here as that which the missionaries teach in regard to the gospel. Each individual will be held responsible or accountable for the decision he makes to accept or reject that which comes into his awareness. He should glean every bit of truth he possibly can, and again as in the case of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, investigate any and all possible evidence thoroughly before rejecting it.

We intend to obtain a copy of this edition, "None Dare Call It Treason," and read it, as probably many others will do; because it is even a very small part of what our esteemed professors say "it purports" is true, we citizens need to know about it and do all in our power to protect our freedom.

Names on file

Dear Editor:

The letter to the editor published in last Thursday's Universe, July 23, causes the reader to wonder what type of concern the book "None Dare Call It Treason" has aroused in the long list of authors. The article is self inconsistent calling the paper back book "None Dare Call It Treason."

"254 pages, a tract in one paragraph and a book in the next. However, this is one of the lesser faults of this article. To quote the article, 'According to this volume, there is a conspiratorial plan to destroy the United States into which foreign aid, planned infiltration, distortion of treaty making powers and disarmament all fit' (p. 226)."

Let us look at page 226 in "None Dare Call It Treason." We find: "Is there a conspiratorial plan to destroy the United States into which foreign aid, planned infiltration, distortion of treaty making powers and disarmament all fit?" Notice that our professors have very handily changed a question into a statement of fact, and all within quotation marks, to suit their own purposes. What type of praise would a student receive for doing this in a term paper? Would Drs. Richard D. Poll, "et al." have us believe such a paper would be recommended for publication?

During the last few decades the communists have enslaved a large fraction of the earth's population. This book "None Dare Call It Treason" raises some infrequently discussed and pertinent questions about the rise of communism and its relation to our government's policies in international relations.

If this book is as black and inaccurate as "carefully documented" exposes of Mormonism let our learned professors and teachers explain why. The student body of this University surely deserve more than an article whose arguments rest on misquotations and a subtle appeal to our emotions.

Henry Curtis, Grad.

Stan Jameson

Dear Editor:

Each student must find the truth for himself and not rely on the opinion of a few "learned professors." The book, "None Dare Call It Treason," does present many political truths for those interested in socio-economic and political freedom. However, if one is opposed to individual freedom the book is "bad" for it goes against their goals and desires.

Any student who wants to learn the truth can easily see that these "learned professors" have misquoted and thus caused propagation of their faulty conclusions.

Boyd K. Packer To Visit Soon

Elder Boyd K. Packer, Assistant to the Council of Twelve of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will be a featured speaker at Brigham Young University Thursday, July 30.

He will speak to Summer School students at 10 a.m. in the Y Center Ballroom.

Elder Packer was awarded the Distinguished Service Award by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in his home town, Brigham City. Currently a member of the Board of Education of the Church and the Board of Trustees of the Brigham Young University, he has served as assistant administrator of seminaries and institutes of the Church.

In 1962 he received the doctor of education from BYU. Prior to that he received the B.S. and M.S. degrees from Utah State University.

LOOK TO ERNEST H. DEAN for DIRECTION "THE MAN FOR THE PEOPLE"

Mr. Dean believes that property taxes are too high. Having grown up on a farm himself, he knows the farm problem.

During the past years, our agricultural economy has suffered while the nation as a whole has made economic progress. Mr. Dean thinks that property taxes of the farmers, senior citizens, laborers, and businessmen should be equalized to keep them from rising any higher. Property taxes are a penalty if they are set up now.

The 3 D's Will Appear in Concert With Folkmusic and Entertainment

The 3-D's, folk-singing group, will appear in concert Saturday, Aug. 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the Y Center Ballroom.

Consisting of three BYU graduates, the group just returned from the National Scouting Jam-boree at Valley Forge, Penn., where they performed before 52,000 boy scouts.

THE 3-D's—Dick Davis, Denis Sorenson and Duane Hiatt—are making a name for themselves in the entertainment world as Capitol Recording artists as well as concert performers. Their cutting of "Give Said the Little Stream" sold in the 100,000's and they have another single which is to be released in August. Their first album will be out in October.

On concert tours the group has performed in every part of the United States from Seattle and San Francisco to New York, from Miami to Chicago, from Halifax to Hawaii. Broadening the picture, they've entertained from Kyushu to Korea, from Guam to Okinawa. They have traveled more than 150,000 miles.

The audiences in these places have been diversified. The trio has entertained governors, college and church officials, GI's, Korean farmers, teen clubs and senior citizens.

THE 3-D's HAVE been described as "a truly unique entertainment trio, a group which defies being stereotyped, a group whose versatility delights those to whom variety is the spice of show business."

Specializing in folk music, they expand from there and run the entertainment gamut from slapstick comedy to semi-classical music, accompanying themselves on a variety of instruments from trumpet to banjo.

Baritone Dick Davis is responsible for the musical arrangements for the group. His acting talent won him a college scholarship, and it is put to good use as the 3-D's branch into humorous and dramatic skill, poetry, pantomime, and a lot of things you wouldn't expect to come out of a folk group.

DENIS SORENSON is the high tenor and the "most often complimented" member of the trio. He is the smallest of the group but plays the largest instruments, string bass, piano and congo drum.

Duane Hiatt, six foot five inch lead singer, guitarist, and spokesman for the group on stage, helps set the mood and pace of the show with droll, satirical or slapstick humor or, as the occasion demands, with significant dramatic skill.

Dick Davis, Denis Sorenson, and Duane Hiatt, a folk singing group known as the 3 D's, will present an evening of musical entertainment Saturday in the Y Center. The three BYU graduates have performed at many universities across the United States and abroad. All have appeared on the BYU honor roll.

Chicken Fry Schedules For Weekend Pleasure

Chicken dinner, entertainment, dancing and movies are all part of the annual Summer School Chicken Fry to be held Friday, July 31, announced Dean Zimmerman, chairman.

"CHICK 'N FUN" is the theme for the event which will begin at 7 p.m. in the West Annex of the fieldhouse where the chicken dinner will be served. Students, their wives and children will be served in four lines in the west annex and then walk to the green seats to eat, the chairman reported.

A VARIETY program presented on the playing floor of the fieldhouse will follow the dinner, 7:30. The program is under direction of Hal Johnson, associate student in special education.

At 8 p.m. two activities will begin in the Y Center. A dance featuring Eugene Brimhall's band will be held on the east patio. BYU's productions of "The Grasscutter" and "Thurber" will be presented. A variety of Disney's cartoons can also be viewed in the Y Center Ballroom with the BYU movies.

Clifford Merrill needs to borrow someone's eyes.

A blind teacher who has returned to school to earn a few credit hours to keep his certificate current, Mr. Merrill needs volunteers to read his books and reserve library materials so that he can be recorded on tape.

He has his own tape recorder and uses this as a means of studying his class material. The help of anyone with a little time and good eyes would be appreciated. Mr. Merrill may be contacted at 1120 Stover Hall or call the Universe office, Ext. 3096.

TICKETS for the gala will go on sale this week at Y Center information desks. Students with current activity can purchase a ticket for themselves for 25 cents; for spouse, 50 cents; and for non-student, 75 cents. Students in the campus area have their old activity cards to use the activities with a Y Center.

Helping Chairman Dean Zimmerman on the Chick 'n Fun committee are Marianna Madsen, Beverly Lund, and Emily; Janie Scholes, telethon; Bloss and Chester Jones, film; Dixie Sampson, history and fiction; Sarah Young, serving; Carol Phillips, dance.
